little people had a very merry time. The Christmas service at the Congregational church was good. Rev. H. H. Jones preached a fine sermon. The choir sang two anthems in a very creditable manner, considering the infancy of the organization.

The Christmas tree at the Congregational church was a fine success. The little people were very cute and sweet in their songs and recitations. There were presents for all the school, and pretty boxes of candy for all the school and neighborhood. Santa Claus was on hand and distributed the presents. The whole affair reflects much credit on the committee that had it in charge.
